OHANA " Spontaneous Painting Workshop: A Celebration of Global Unity

1. Brushing Borders Away:

The SAC Painting Club, KL University, recently hosted a truly unique and vibrant event, the "OHANA" Spontaneous Painting Workshop, on September 13, 2025. More than just an art session, "OHANA"—a Hawaiian word meaning family—was a beautiful convergence of 50 International Students, using the universal language of art to celebrate National Unity and Cultural Representation.

Held at the SAC Hall Premises in the R&D Block, the atmosphere was electric with creative energy. Students from diverse backgrounds picked up brushes and spontaneously painted their interpretations of unity, their national identities, and the shared human experience. This outpouring of color and creativity transformed the space into a vibrant gallery of global friendship. The workshop was masterfully coordinated by Shri Sridhar Patnala, whose vision brought this inspiring cultural exchange to life.

The event was graced by respected dignitaries who offered words of encouragement and appreciation. Dr. AVS Prasad, Pro Vice-Chancellor of KL University, and Dr. Kishore Babu Garu, Dean of International Affairs, participated as keynote speakers, underscoring the university's commitment to fostering a globally inclusive environment. The SAC Painting Club extended its heartfelt thanks to Mr. Sai Vijay, Director of SAC, KLEF, for his continuous support in making such enriching events possible. The "OHANA" workshop proved that while our origins may differ, the canvas of humanity is one, painted with the same shades of unity and mutual respect.
