The event was held in Rose Hall and witnessed enthusiastic participation from students across various departments.

Objective:

The primary objective of the event was to foster creative writing skills by guiding participants through engaging activities that encouraged them to explore storytelling, poetry, and content creation. ### Event Highlights:

- The session started with a talk on how creativity can be developed and how writing can be a way to express thoughts and emotions. The speaker spoke about the importance of observing the world around us, staying curious, and using writing as a tool to explore our inner voice.
- After this, participants joined a group discussion where they shared their views on what creativity means to them. They also spoke about why many people hold back from being creative mentioning reasons like fear of judgment, pressure to be perfect, or not having the right environment.
- The event ended with an open mic session. Here, participants shared their own poems, stories, or writings. Some also chose to read out pieces of literature that they really liked. It was a fun and inspiring segment where everyone’s creativity was celebrated.
