Prepare

Event : Training on Disaster Management by NDRF

Date : 17-09-2026

Place : KL University, Vaddeswaram.

Objective:

The objective of the Training on Disaster Management by NDRF, conducted on 17-09-2026 at KL University, Vaddeswaram, was to create awareness among students about disaster preparedness, safety, and effective emergency response. The program aimed to familiarize participants with different types of natural and man-made disasters and the appropriate safety measures to be followed during such situations. It also focused on providing basic awareness about first aid, fire safety, emergency response, and search and rescue techniques. The training encouraged students to remain alert, prepared, and responsible so that they can respond effectively and assist others during emergencies.

Description:

The Training on Disaster Management by NDRF was organized at KL University, Vaddeswaram, as an awareness and preparedness initiative by the KLEF NSS Cell and Safe Life Club. The training was conducted by the B/10th Battalion, National Disaster Response Force (NDRF).

The program provided participants with practical awareness about various aspects of disaster management. The major areas covered during the training included disaster preparedness, first aid and emergency response, fire safety, natural and man-made disasters, and search and rescue techniques. The session emphasized the importance of being prepared before a disaster occurs and following appropriate safety procedures during emergency situations.

The training also helped students understand the importance of remaining calm, alert, and organized during disasters. Through the guidance and demonstrations provided by the NDRF personnel, participants gained a better understanding of how proper preparedness and timely response can help protect lives and reduce the effects of emergencies.

Outcome:

The program successfully improved students' awareness and understanding of disaster management and emergency preparedness. Participants gained knowledge about different types of disasters and the basic precautions that can be taken to minimize risks. They were also introduced to essential aspects of first aid, fire safety, emergency response, and search and rescue techniques. The training helped students understand the importance of responding quickly but safely during emergency situations. It also encouraged them to develop a sense of responsibility toward their own safety as well as the safety of others.

Impact on Society:

The program contributed to building a more aware, prepared, and safety-conscious community by providing students with knowledge about disaster preparedness and emergency response. Students can share the information and safety practices learned during the training with their families, friends, and peers, thereby extending the benefits of the program beyond the university.

Awareness about first aid, fire safety, disaster preparedness, and search and rescue procedures can help individuals respond more appropriately during emergency situations and reduce unnecessary panic. Such programs also encourage young people to take an active role in community safety and emergency preparedness. Overall, the initiative helped strengthen awareness about disaster management among students and promoted a culture of preparedness, awareness, responsibility, and safety within the community.
