The poster features the logos of KL University and CEA (Centre for Extension Activities). The title is 'CENTRE FOR EXTENSION ACTIVITIES ART OF MASTERY IN WORK'. Below the title, it says 'Mastery is the art of setting your foot on the path you have paved for'. The date is '1st November 2020' and the time is '10:30 AM'. It is a 'WEBINAR' featuring 'Ms. S. SRI VIDHYA, Assistant professor, Academic staff college'. Contact information is provided: 'Karthik:-9989054312' and 'Divya:8688838212'. A registration link is given: 'http://bit.ly/ARTOFMASTERY'. It also states 'Certificates will be awarded to the participants' and provides the email 'cea@kluniversity.in' and social media handles '@klcfcea'.

The screenshot shows a video player with a quote: 'Most men lead lives of quiet desperation and go to the grave with the song still in them. — Henry David Thoreau,'. The video player interface includes controls for 'Unmute', 'Start video', 'Share', 'Record', 'Participants', and 'Chat'. A speaker icon is visible in the bottom right corner.

The screenshot shows a video player with a slide titled 'What's your inner calling?'. The slide contains the text: 'The misery that oppresses you lies not in your profession but in yourself! What man in the world would not find his situation intolerable if he chooses a craft, an art, indeed any form of life, without experiencing an inner calling? Whoever is born with a talent, or to a talent, must surely find in that the most pleasing of occupations! Everything on this earth has its difficult sides! Only some inner drive-pleasure, love-can help us overcome obstacles, prepare a path, and lift us out of the narrow circle in which others tread out their anguished, miserable existences!'. There is an image of a woman looking up with her arms raised. The video player interface includes controls for 'Unmute', 'Start video', 'Share', 'Record', 'Participants', and 'Chat'.

The screenshot shows a video player with a slide titled 'Human nature'. The slide contains the text: 'One of the most enduring and deep-seated of all beliefs about human nature-that natural talent plays a major role in determining ability. This belief holds that some people are born with natural endowments that make it easier for them to become outstanding athletes or musicians or chess players or writers or mathematicians or whatever. While they may still need a certain amount of practice to develop their skills, they need far less than others who are not as talented, and they can ultimately reach much greater heights. Why some people ultimately develop greater abilities in an area than others, with deliberate practice playing the starring role. So let's separate myth from reality by exploring the intertwined roles of talent and training in the development of extraordinary abilities. As we'll see, innate characteristics play a much smaller-and much different-role than many people generally assume.' There is an illustration of a brain with legs. The video player interface includes controls for 'Unmute', 'Start video', 'Share', 'Record', 'Participants', and 'Chat'.

Johari window

• A Johari window is a psychological tool created by Joseph Luft and Harry Ingham in 1955. It's a simple and useful tool for understanding and training:

Known by Me	Unknown by Me
Public Transparency Mutual Benefit	Blind Spot Assumptions, Misinformation, Bad Decisions, Loss of Situational Awareness Opportunity to Share Info
Blind Spot Embarrassment, Misunderstanding, Misinformation, Loss of Situational Awareness Opportunity to Share Info	Unknown WE Look Ignorant Incompetent Untapped Potential

The KLEF_CEA team conducted an online event about the NLP and solved the doubts regarding the neuron linguistic programming.
