Description of the Event:

The KLEF Centre for Extension Activities (CEA) organized a door-to-door campaign on “Awareness on Sunstroke Effects” on 20/03/2026 at Thummapudi Village with the aim of educating villagers about the causes, symptoms, prevention, and first-aid measures related to sunstroke. Volunteers and students actively visited households, explaining the importance of staying hydrated, avoiding direct exposure to the sun during peak hours, and wearing protective clothing. Pamphlets were distributed, and simple tips such as consuming ORS, buttermilk, and water-rich foods were shared to help people cope with extreme heat conditions. The campaign received a positive response from the villagers, who showed keen interest in learning practical ways to safeguard their health during the summer season.

Objectives:

- ❖ To create awareness among villagers about the causes and symptoms of sunstroke.
- ❖ To educate people on preventive measures such as staying hydrated and avoiding direct sun exposure during peak hours.
- ❖ To promote the use of protective practices like wearing caps, using umbrellas, and consuming cooling foods.
- ❖ To inform villagers about basic first-aid steps to handle sunstroke cases.
- ❖ To reduce health risks and prevent heat-related illnesses during the summer season.
- ❖ To encourage community participation in maintaining health and safety during extreme weather conditions.

Outcome:

The door-to-door campaign on “Awareness on Sunstroke Effects” at Thummapudi Village resulted in a noticeable improvement in the community’s understanding of heat-related health risks and preventive measures. Villagers became more aware of the importance of staying hydrated, avoiding prolonged exposure to the sun, and recognizing early symptoms of sunstroke. Many households adopted simple protective practices such as drinking sufficient water, using head coverings, and consuming cooling foods. The campaign also encouraged timely response and basic first-aid measures in case of heat-related illness, thereby contributing to better preparedness and reduced vulnerability among the villagers during the summer season.

Impact of the Society:

The door-to-door campaign on “Awareness on Sunstroke Effects” at Thummapudi Village had a positive impact on the community by promoting healthier behaviors and increasing collective responsibility toward heat safety. The awareness created through personal interaction helped villagers adopt preventive practices such as regular hydration, use of protective clothing, and limiting outdoor activities during peak heat hours. It also strengthened community preparedness by enabling people to identify early symptoms and respond promptly to sunstroke cases. Overall, the campaign contributed to improved public health consciousness, reduced risk of heat-related illnesses, and fostered a more informed and resilient society during extreme summer conditions.
