DETAILS OF THE EVENT:

Objective: This session is about the installation of PyCharm and creating the basic project file in the respective platform

Outcome: In this session we mainly focused on basic project file in PyCharm, as we all know before we start working on a Django project in PyCharm, we need to have Python and PyCharm installed on your system

Report: This session is about the installation of PyCharm and creating the basic project file in the respective platform. Django is a powerful web framework for building web applications quickly and efficiently. PyCharm, on the other hand, is a popular integrated development environment (IDE) for Python developers. Combining the two can make the process of creating and managing Django projects a breeze. In this essay, we will walk you through the step-by-step process of creating a Django project in PyCharm.

When these two powerhouses join forces, the result is a potent combination that makes Django development a truly enjoyable experience. In this essay, we'll delve into the synergy between Django and PyCharm, highlighting how this pairing simplifies web development and unlocks a world of possibilities.
