

Profile of Dr. Madhu Latha Veerapaneni

Dr. Madhu L. Veerapaneni is an Academic Strategist and Career Mentor. She is a seasoned educator with 18 years of experience and holds a Ph.D. in Human Resource Development. She has a strong research background, with Scopus-indexed publications and several research paper presentations at international and national conferences/ seminars. Dr. Madhu is committed to empowering students to achieve their full potential in their academic and professional pursuits. Her objective is to guide students towards strategic thinking and career success through customized coaching and mentorship programs. In today's highly competitive digital space, Dr. Madhu emphasizes the importance of educators playing the role of facilitators and mentors, guiding students to develop the critical thinking and adaptability skills necessary for success in the evolving workplace. She believes that true leadership lies in nurturing the growth of others. Her goal is to foster the development of managers who excel professionally and contribute positively to society. Skilled in team building, communication, mentoring, and people management, she is passionate about Human Capital Management (HCM) areas such as performance management and training & development and strives to create environments where individuals can thrive. Dr. Madhu regularly delivers workshops and guest lectures, and she actively serves as a judge for a variety of academic events and competitions.