LOCATION : RVR & JC College

ORGANIZED BY : 10 Andhra Girls Battalion NCC

COMBINED ANNUAL TRAINING CAMP (CATC-I) – 2025

The Combined Annual Training Camp (CATC-I) – 2025 was successfully organized by 10 Andhra Girls Battalion NCC at RVR & JC College from 26 May 2025 to 04 June 2025. The camp brought together NCC cadets from various institutions to undergo intensive military, physical, and leadership training in a disciplined environment.

The primary objective of the camp was to instill the values of discipline, unity, leadership, patriotism, and teamwork among cadets. Throughout the camp, cadets actively participated in drill practice, weapon training, physical fitness activities, map reading, tent pitching, cultural events, and leadership sessions. The camp atmosphere was filled with enthusiasm, dedication, and a strong sense of camaraderie among all participating cadets.

Cadets of KLEF NCC from 10 Andhra Girls Battalion displayed exceptional performance and brought pride to the institution through their discipline, teamwork, and competitive spirit. Their active participation and achievements in various competitions reflected the high standards of training and commitment maintained during the camp.

TRAINING AND ACTIVITIES

A well-structured schedule was followed throughout the camp to ensure the overall development of cadets. Every day began with physical training (PT) sessions and parade drills that focused on endurance, synchronization, alertness, and discipline. Drill sessions helped cadets improve their confidence, coordination, and command-following abilities.

Weapon training sessions were conducted under the supervision of trained NCC instructors, where cadets learned the basics of rifle handling, safety measures, and firing positions. Sessions on map reading, field craft, first aid, disaster management, and tent pitching enhanced the practical knowledge and survival skills of cadets.

The camp also included awareness programs, group discussions, cultural activities, and social service initiatives that promoted national integration, teamwork, and leadership qualities. Cultural evenings provided cadets an opportunity to showcase their talents and strengthen unity among participants from different backgrounds.

ADDRESS BY CAMP COMMANDANT

The Camp Commandant addressed the cadets during the inaugural and valedictory ceremonies. In his speech, he emphasized the importance of NCC training in shaping responsible, disciplined, and patriotic youth. He encouraged cadets to develop leadership qualities, self-confidence, and dedication towards serving the nation.

The Commandant appreciated the discipline and commitment shown by all cadets throughout the camp. He specially congratulated the prize winners for their outstanding performances and motivated cadets to continue participating actively in NCC activities and camps.

VISITS AND INTERACTIONS

The camp witnessed visits by senior NCC officers and officials who inspected the camp arrangements, parade drills, line areas, and competitions. Their interaction with cadets motivated participants and provided valuable guidance regarding leadership, career opportunities in the armed forces, and the importance of discipline in life.

Cadets enthusiastically interacted with officers, clarified their doubts, and gained inspiration from their experiences and motivational speeches.

IMPACT ON CADETS

CATC-I – 2025 had a significant impact on all participating cadets. Living in a disciplined camp environment helped cadets develop punctuality, adaptability, cooperation, and responsibility. The camp strengthened their physical fitness, mental toughness, and leadership abilities.

The experience of participating in competitions, cultural activities, and teamwork-oriented tasks enhanced their confidence and communication skills. Cadets also developed friendships, mutual respect, and a deeper understanding of unity in diversity.

The achievements earned during the camp motivated cadets to perform better in future NCC activities and inspired them to uphold the NCC motto — “Unity and Discipline.”

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CAMP

The Combined Annual Training Camp (CATC-I) plays a vital role in the practical training and personality development of NCC cadets. CATC-I – 2025 successfully combined military training, discipline, leadership development, and cultural exchange under one platform.

The camp provided cadets with opportunities to improve their physical endurance, leadership qualities, and team spirit while also promoting patriotism and civic responsibility. Through competitions and group activities, cadets learned the importance of cooperation, dedication, and commitment toward collective success.

The camp served as an excellent platform for cadets to showcase their talents and gain valuable experiences that will guide them throughout their academic and personal journeys.

CADET LEARNING AND TAKEAWAYS

The cadets returned from CATC-I – 2025 with improved confidence, discipline, leadership skills, and patriotic spirit. They learned the value of teamwork, obedience, mutual respect, and time management through rigorous camp activities and training sessions.

Participation in competitions such as Guard of Honour, Badminton, and Tent Pitching enhanced their practical skills, coordination, and competitive spirit. The camp experience also helped cadets overcome fear, improve decision-making abilities, and build self-confidence.

The memories, lessons, and friendships developed during the camp will remain a source of inspiration and motivation throughout their NCC journey.

CONCLUSION

The Combined Annual Training Camp (CATC-I) – 2025, organized by 10 Andhra Girls Battalion NCC at RVR & JC College from 26 May 2025 to 04 June 2025, concluded successfully with active participation and remarkable achievements by all cadets.

The camp effectively achieved its objective of developing discipline, leadership qualities, patriotism, and team spirit among cadets. The outstanding performances of KLEF NCC cadets in Guard of Honour, Badminton, and Tent Pitching competitions brought pride and recognition to the institution.

The closing ceremony included prize distribution and appreciation for cadets who excelled in various events. As the camp concluded, cadets departed with unforgettable experiences, stronger bonds of friendship, and renewed dedication towards the NCC motto — “Unity and Discipline.”
