Inspirational Speech by Capt.Yashika Tyagi at Vivanta Hotel

An unforgettable and inspiring event took place at Vivanta Hotel, Vijayawada, where the courageous Captain Yashika Tyagi, fondly known as the “Kargil War Sherni”, addressed the gathering of NCC cadets from KL University. The session was organized to motivate young cadets and foster in them the values of service, discipline, and leadership.

Captain Yashika Tyagi, who made history as one of the first lady officers to serve on the frontlines during the Kargil War, shared her life journey, struggles, and experiences from the battlefield. She spoke about how challenges can be transformed into opportunities with courage and determination. Drawing from her personal story, she encouraged the cadets to remain steadfast in the face of obstacles and to uphold the highest ideals of integrity, commitment, and patriotism.

IMPACT ON CADETS

The cadets were deeply moved by her address, listening with keen interest and admiration. The session also included an interactive Q&A, where cadets asked insightful questions and received motivating responses from Capt. Tyagi. Through her experiences, she reminded the gathering that serving the nation is not confined to the battlefield alone but can be carried out through honesty, responsibility, and dedication in every walk of life.

Her words deeply resonated with the young NCC cadets, who listened with rapt attention. She highlighted the importance of teamwork, responsibility, and perseverance, qualities that define both soldiers and leaders in all walks of life.

She also reminded the cadets that serving the nation is not confined to the battlefield alone but can be practiced through selfless contribution, honesty, and discipline in every profession.

For many cadets, this was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to interact with a decorated officer, which has boosted their confidence, inspired them to aim higher, and motivated them to dedicate themselves more sincerely to the ideals of the NCC.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE EVENT

The inspirational speech by Capt. Yashika Tyagi was of great significance to the NCC cadets of KL University, as it provided them with first-hand exposure to the life and experiences of a soldier who has displayed extraordinary courage and service to the nation. For the young cadets, it was not just a motivational talk, but a living example of resilience, patriotism, and leadership.

Hearing directly from a war veteran, especially one who served during the Kargil War, instilled in the cadets a sense of pride in the armed forces and a deeper respect for the sacrifices made by soldiers to safeguard the nation. The event also reinforced the idea that the values of the armed forces—such as unity, discipline, perseverance, and selfless service—are not limited to military life but are equally important in academics, careers, and social responsibilities.

The session significantly contributed to the holistic development of cadets, aligning with the objectives of the NCC to nurture responsible citizens and future leaders. It served as a reminder that leadership is not about authority but about responsibility, integrity, and the courage to make the right decisions under pressure.

This event will be remembered as a transformative milestone in their cadet journey—encouraging them to embody the NCC motto “Unity and Discipline” in every aspect of life, while preparing to serve the nation in different capacities with pride and honour.

The cadets were captivated by her powerful storytelling and deeply inspired by her courage. Many were moved by the emotional accounts of her experiences during the Kargil conflict. The session also included an interactive Q&A round, where the cadets have posed questions related to leadership, career in the armed forces, and overcoming challenges. Capt. Tyagi patiently responded, motivating the cadets to remain focused and to believe in themselves no matter what obstacles they face.

CONCLUSION

The inspirational session by Capt. Yashika Tyagi at Vivanta Hotel, Vijayawada, marked a significant milestone in the journey of the NCC cadets of KL University. More than just a motivational address, the event served as a transformative experience that left a deep and lasting impression on every cadet present. By sharing her extraordinary journey as one of the first lady officers in the Indian Army and her courageous role in the Kargil War, Capt. Tyagi ignited in the cadets a strong sense of pride, purpose, and determination.

Her words of wisdom emphasized that leadership is not about commanding others but about shouldering responsibility, showing integrity, and inspiring through action. The cadets were reminded that courage does not always mean the absence of fear but rather the strength to overcome fear and continue moving forward. These lessons, drawn from the life of a war veteran, resonated strongly with the cadets, motivating them to adopt the values of discipline, perseverance, and service in their own lives.

The conclusion of the event highlighted not only the immediate impact of Capt. Tyagi's speech but also its long-term significance. The cadets left the session with a renewed spirit, determined to contribute to society and the nation in meaningful ways. For many, it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to interact with a living example of resilience and patriotism, which will inspire them throughout their personal and professional journeys.

The event also reinforced the core objectives of the National Cadet Corps—to embed unity, discipline, leadership, and a spirit of selfless service. It reminded the cadets that the values upheld by the armed forces are equally essential in civilian life and that true service to the nation can be carried out in every walk of life with honesty and dedication.

As the program concluded with a vote of thanks, there was a sense of pride and fulfilment in the atmosphere. The cadets not only gained knowledge but also imbibed the essence of what it means to be responsible citizens and future leaders. This inspirational session will be remembered as a guiding light in their journey with the NCC, encouraging them to uphold its motto - "Unity and Discipline"—in every endeavour.
