ABOUT FEMTECH-2K26

The National Conference aims to provide a comprehensive platform that integrates technology, nutrition, and pharmacotherapy to advance women's healthcare. It emphasizes experiential, hands-on learning with digital therapeutic platforms and precision health strategies to enhance clinical outcomes through personalized interventions. The sessions on evidence-based lifestyle and nutritional approaches will highlight the role of functional foods, nutraceuticals, and psychobiotic strategies in promoting women's preventive health and mental well-being. Additionally, the conference will explore frontiers in pharmacotherapeutics, focusing on hormonal therapies, targeted cancer treatments, and sex-specific approaches in neurological and psychiatric care. Overall, it seeks to foster interdisciplinary collaboration, innovation, and translational research to strengthen women's health at clinical, community, and global levels.
