2. Dr. P. Kasi Visweswara Rao, Assoc. Dean (Academics) – Circular Aspects

2. Objectives of the Programme

The Faculty Development Programme was organized with the following objectives:

- To create awareness among faculty members about the vision, objectives, and key reforms proposed in the National Education Policy – 2020.
- To familiarize faculty with the structural and academic transformations introduced through NEP-2020 in higher education.

- To explain the institutional initiatives and strategies adopted by KL University for implementing NEP-2020.
- To encourage faculty members to adopt innovative, multidisciplinary, and student-centric teaching approaches aligned with NEP guidelines.

3. Target Audience

Faculty members from all the departments of KL University.

4. Brief Report of the Programme

A Five-Day Faculty Development Programme on "National Education Policy – 2020 (NEP-2020)" was organized by the Office of Dean (Academics) in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of KL University. The programme aimed to strengthen faculty awareness and understanding of the transformative framework introduced through NEP-2020 and its implications for higher education institutions.

Although the programme was scheduled over five days, the FDP followed a structured one-day module that was delivered repeatedly across all five days to accommodate different groups of faculty members. Each day witnessed the participation of a separate group of faculty participants from various departments. This format enabled wider participation and ensured that faculty members could attend the programme without affecting their academic responsibilities.

The sessions were handled by experienced resource persons who provided detailed insights into the vision and objectives of NEP-2020. The resource persons explained the policy framework, highlighting its focus on multidisciplinary education, flexibility in curriculum structure, holistic and experiential learning, skill development, and research-oriented education. They also elaborated on important provisions such as multiple entry and exit options, Academic Bank of Credits (ABC), credit transfer mechanisms, and outcome-based education.

A major component of the programme focused on the implementation of NEP-2020 at KL University. The speakers discussed the institutional initiatives taken to align the academic structure with the policy recommendations. Faculty members were introduced to the revised curriculum frameworks, flexible credit systems, interdisciplinary learning opportunities, and the integration of project-based and experiential learning methodologies. Emphasis was also placed on promoting research culture, innovation, and industry-relevant skill development among students.

The programme provided an interactive platform for faculty members to clarify their doubts and discuss the practical aspects of implementing NEP-aligned teaching practices. Participants actively engaged in discussions related to curriculum design, student assessment methods, and effective strategies to promote holistic education in line with NEP-2020.

5. Outcomes of the Programme

- Faculty members gained a comprehensive understanding of the vision and framework of NEP-2020.
- Participants became familiar with the institutional strategies adopted by KL University for implementing the policy.
- The programme helped faculty align their teaching and curriculum design with multidisciplinary and outcome-based learning approaches.
- It strengthened faculty readiness to adopt innovative teaching practices that support the objectives of NEP-2020.

6. Number of Participants

Faculty members from various departments of KL University participated in the programme across five days. A total of 530 faculty members has actively participated in the event.

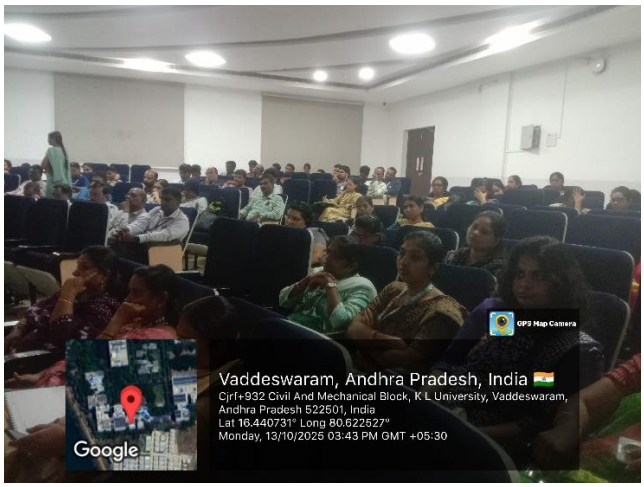

(Attendance sheet enclosed for records.)

7. Photographs

Photographs of the technical session and participant interaction are enclosed.

7. Conclusion:

The Five-Day Faculty Development Programme successfully created awareness and understanding of NEP-2020 among faculty members. The sessions helped participants gain clarity on policy reforms and their practical implementation within the university. The initiative significantly contributed to strengthening faculty preparedness for adopting NEP-aligned academic practices and supporting the ongoing academic transformation at KL University.
