Introduction

A Two-Day Training Programme on “Behavioural Aspects” was organized from 01-12-2025 to 02-12-2025 by the Academic Staff College, KLEF, in association with the Value Education Cell (VEC), KLEF. The programme was designed for Vigilance Officers and Hostel Wardens, who play a vital role in maintaining discipline, ensuring safety, and supporting the overall well-being of students on campus. The sessions were conducted by Dr. B. Pavan Kumar, HOD-VEC, KLEF, and Ms. S. Sankari, Psychology Counsellor, VEC, KLEF, who brought valuable expertise in behavioral sciences, counselling, and student engagement.

The primary objective of the programme was to enhance effective communication skills, improve interpersonal and behavioral competencies, and enable participants to perform their roles more efficiently and empathetically. The training aimed to equip participants with the necessary skills to manage student behavior, address conflicts, and create a positive and supportive campus environment.

Detailed Report:

The training programme focused on providing a comprehensive understanding of human behavior and its practical application in institutional settings. The sessions emphasized the importance of behavioral awareness, emotional intelligence, and professional conduct while dealing with students and colleagues. Participants were introduced to key concepts such as perception, attitude, and emotional responses, and how these factors influence interactions and decision-making processes.

A major component of the programme was dedicated to effective communication skills. The resource persons elaborated on verbal and non-verbal communication, active listening, empathy, and clarity in expression. Participants were trained to handle sensitive situations with patience, understanding, and professionalism. Real-life scenarios related to hostel management and campus vigilance were discussed, enabling participants to relate theoretical concepts to practical situations. The sessions encouraged participants to reflect on their own communication styles and adopt more constructive approaches in their interactions.

The programme also focused on developing interpersonal skills and conflict management strategies. Participants were guided on how to manage disputes among students, handle disciplinary issues, and maintain a balanced approach in challenging situations. Techniques for de-escalation, problem-solving, and decision-making were discussed in detail. The importance of building trust and maintaining a respectful environment was highlighted as a key factor in effective campus management.

Another important aspect of the training was the introduction to basic counselling techniques. Participants were sensitized to identify early signs of stress, anxiety, or emotional distress among students. The resource persons explained how simple counselling approaches, such as active listening, reassurance, and guidance, can make a significant difference in supporting students. They also emphasized the importance of timely intervention and referral to professional counselling services when required.

The sessions were highly interactive, involving discussions, case studies, and experience sharing among participants. This interactive approach enabled participants to gain practical insights and learn from real-life experiences. The resource persons provided valuable suggestions and strategies to address common challenges faced by vigilance officers and hostel wardens in their day-to-day responsibilities.

Conclusion

The training programme was highly informative and impactful, as it significantly enhanced the behavioral and interpersonal competencies of the participants. It equipped them with practical skills to manage student-related issues effectively while maintaining discipline and empathy. The initiative taken by the Academic Staff College in association with the Value Education Cell was well appreciated, as it contributed to strengthening campus management and promoting a safe, supportive, and student-friendly environment.
