One Day workshop on “Empowering Educators with Coursera’s Innovative AI-Powered Solutions”

Organized by: Academic Staff College in association with Coursera.

Dates: 13-12-2025

Venue: L615, Library Block.

Resource Person:

Ms. Kushboo Kumar, Coursera

Introduction

A One-Day Workshop on “Empowering Educators with Coursera’s Innovative AI-Powered Solutions” was conducted on 13-12-2025 at L615, Library Block. The programme was organized by the Academic Staff College, KLEF, in collaboration with Coursera, with the objective of introducing faculty members to advanced AI-powered tools for enhancing teaching and learning practices. The session was facilitated by Ms. Kushboo Kumar from Coursera, who provided valuable insights into leveraging digital platforms and artificial intelligence to create engaging, scalable, and outcome-driven learning experiences.

The workshop aimed to empower educators with innovative solutions that support curriculum design, content delivery, and assessment through AI-enabled technologies. It focused on bridging the gap between academic requirements and industry expectations by integrating modern digital tools into teaching methodologies.

The workshop began with an overview of Coursera’s ecosystem and its role in transforming higher education through technology-driven learning solutions. Ms. Kushboo Kumar introduced participants to the concept of AI-powered education and highlighted how institutions can leverage such platforms to enhance course quality, accessibility, and learner engagement.

A major component of the workshop involved hands-on engagement with the Coursera Program Builder, where participants learned how to design structured academic programmes aligned with institutional goals and industry requirements. The session demonstrated how educators can map course outcomes, integrate relevant content, and create comprehensive learning pathways for students.

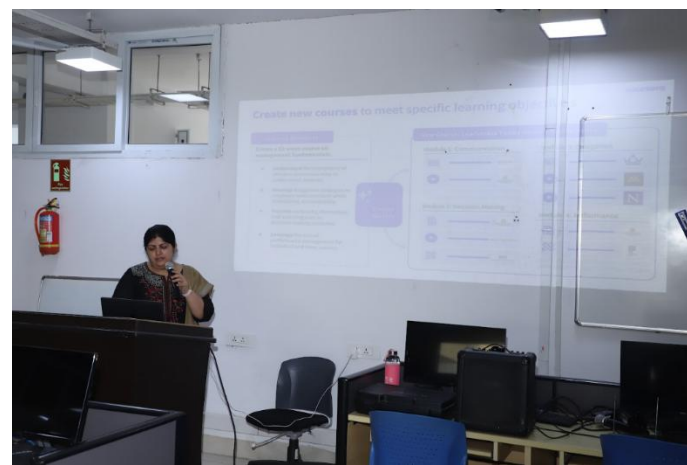

The Course Builder module provided participants with practical exposure to developing and organizing course content effectively. Faculty members were guided on structuring modules, incorporating multimedia elements, and ensuring a seamless learning experience. The session emphasized creating learner-centric content that is interactive, flexible, and aligned with outcome-based education principles.

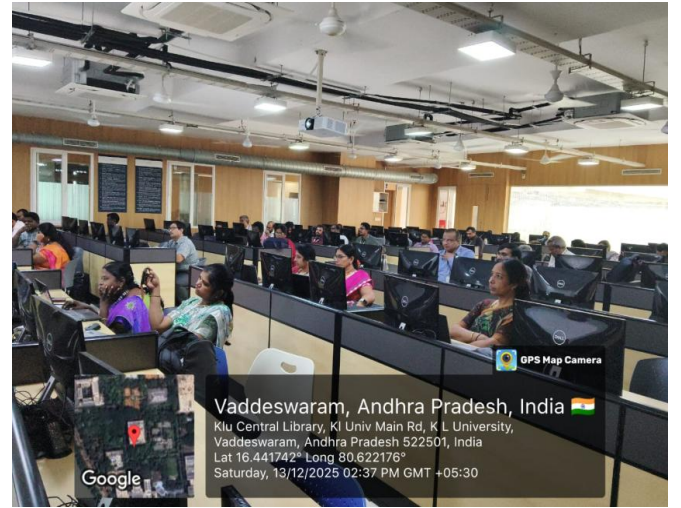

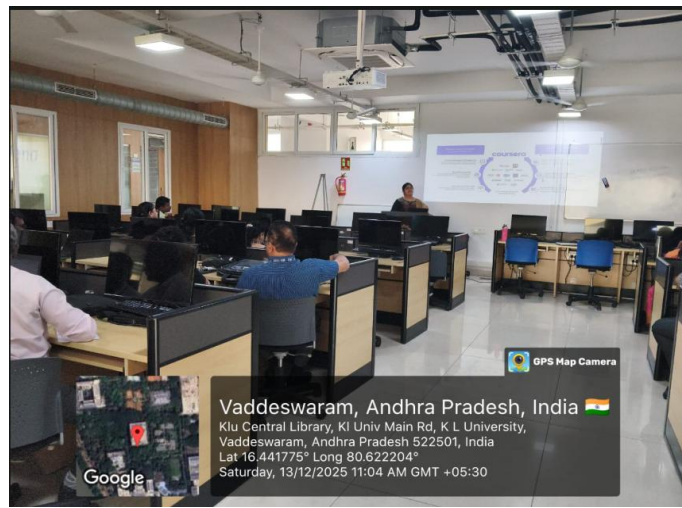

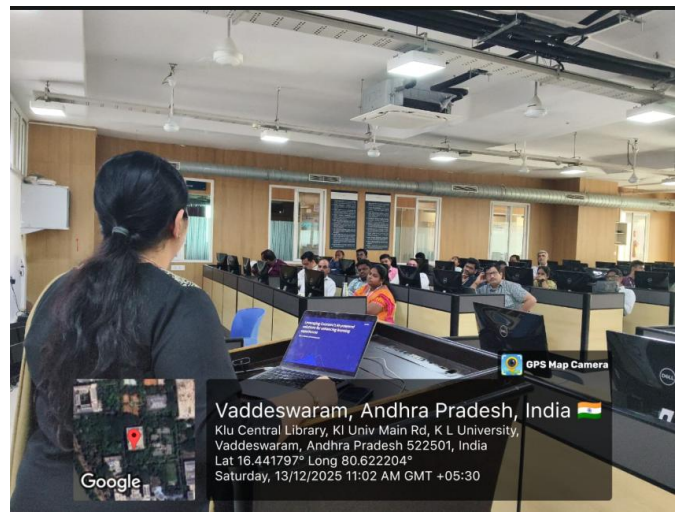

Another key highlight of the workshop was the introduction to AI-Graded Assessments and Proctoring tools. Participants were shown how AI can be used to automate evaluation processes, ensure academic integrity, and provide instant feedback to learners. The resource person explained how these features help reduce manual workload while maintaining assessment quality and transparency.

The workshop also covered innovative features such as Dialogue and Role-Play, which enable interactive learning experiences through simulated scenarios. These tools were demonstrated as effective methods for enhancing critical thinking, communication skills, and practical understanding among students. Additionally, participants were introduced to Verified Skill Tracks, which align academic learning with industry-relevant skills, thereby improving student employability and career readiness.

The session was highly interactive, with participants actively engaging in discussions and exploring the platform features in real time. Faculty members appreciated the practical orientation of the workshop, as it provided them with hands-on experience in using AI-powered tools for academic content creation and delivery.

Conclusion

The workshop proved to be highly informative and beneficial for the participants, as it provided a comprehensive understanding of how AI-powered solutions can be integrated into teaching and learning processes. Faculty members gained valuable insights into designing effective courses, automating assessments, and enhancing student engagement through innovative digital tools.

Overall, the initiative taken by the Academic Staff College in collaboration with Coursera was well appreciated, as it contributed to strengthening digital pedagogy and promoting the adoption of advanced educational technologies. The workshop successfully empowered educators to explore new possibilities in delivering high-quality, technology-enabled education.
