Detailed Report:

The Academic Staff College (ASC), KLEF, in association with the Value Education Cell, organized a Mental Health Awareness Programme on 31st January 2026 from 3:00 PM to 5:00 PM at the university campus. The programme was conducted with the objective of creating awareness among faculty members about mental well-being, stress management, emotional resilience, and the importance of maintaining healthy family relationships.

The programme was inaugurated by Dr. Radhika Rani Chintala, Principal, Academic Staff College, along with Dr. B. Pavan Kumar, HoD – Value Education Cell. In her inaugural address, Dr. Radhika Rani Chintala emphasized the significance of mental health awareness in academic and professional life. She highlighted that maintaining emotional balance and psychological well-being is essential for effective teaching, research, and personal growth.

Ms. Anisa Begum, Founder and Director of Inner Wheel Club District 302 – Jeevana Help Line, addressed the gathering and briefed the participants about the social initiatives undertaken by the organization. She explained the objectives and services of the “Jeevana” toll-free help line, which provides free psychosocial and online counselling support to individuals and families facing emotional and mental health challenges.

The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Thejavathi U.C, Clinical Assistant and Counsellor, Department of Nephrology, Sunrise Hospitals, Vijayawada. She delivered an insightful and engaging session on the theme Mental Health Awareness and Stress Management.

In her address, Dr. Thejavathi explained the concept of mental health and emphasized that it is as important as physical health in maintaining overall well-being. She elaborated on the common signs and symptoms of stress, such as persistent fatigue, irritability, anxiety, lack of concentration, sleep disturbances, and emotional imbalance. She highlighted how unrecognized and unmanaged stress can gradually affect both personal and professional life, leading to reduced productivity, strained relationships, and decreased job satisfaction.

She elaborated on the various stressors faced by faculty members, including academic workload, research expectations, administrative responsibilities, performance pressures, and challenges in balancing professional and personal life. She highlighted the importance of early identification of stress and adopting positive coping mechanisms such as effective time management, prioritization, mindfulness practices, regular physical activity, healthy communication, and maintaining supportive relationships.

Importantly, Dr. Thejavathi also addressed the critical role of faculty members in supporting students who may be experiencing stress, anxiety, or emotional difficulties. She advised faculty to be observant of behavioral changes in students, such as sudden decline in academic performance, absenteeism, withdrawal from class participation, mood swings, or unusual aggression or silence. She emphasized the need for empathetic listening, patience, and non-judgmental communication when interacting with distressed students.

She encouraged faculty members to create a safe and approachable environment in classrooms where students feel comfortable sharing their concerns. Faculty were advised to avoid labeling or criticizing students and instead guide them with understanding and reassurance. She also highlighted the importance of referring students to professional counselling services when necessary and collaborating with institutional support systems to ensure timely intervention.

Dr. Thejavathi stressed that building strong mentor-mentee relationships, promoting open dialogue, and reducing stigma around mental health can significantly contribute to students' emotional resilience and academic success. She concluded by encouraging faculty members to prioritize both their own mental well-being and that of their students, thereby fostering a supportive and healthy academic environment within the institution.

The programme concluded with the felicitation of the resource persons by Dr. Radhika Rani Chintala, Principal – ASC, and Dr. B. Pavan Kumar, HoD – VEC, along with the faculty members of the Department of Value Education Cell.

The event ended with a formal vote of thanks, acknowledging the efforts of the organizers, speakers, and participants. A total of 224 faculty members attended the programmes and got benefited. The programme witnessed an encouraging response from the faculty members and successfully reinforced the importance of mental health awareness and emotional well-being in the academic community.
