Faculty Development Program on MICROSOFT AZURE

Organized by

Academic Staff College, KLEF

25-06-21 To 26-06-21

Academic Staff College of KLEF organized a FDP on MICROSOFT AZURE

A Faculty Development Program (FDP) focusing on Microsoft Azure was organized at KLU Virtual Class, featuring Er. Ajithesh Gupta, Software Development Engineer at Microsoft, Hyderabad, as the guest speaker. The program aimed to provide faculty members from various departments with insights and skills related to cloud computing using Microsoft Azure.

Er. Ajithesh Gupta delivered a comprehensive session covering the fundamentals of Microsoft Azure, its features, and its applications in various domains. Attendees gained insights into cloud computing concepts, Azure services, and practical implementation techniques.

The session included hands-on demonstrations and interactive discussions, allowing faculty members to engage directly with the platform and clarify doubts. Er. Ajithesh Gupta shared real-world examples and best practices, enabling participants to understand how Azure can be leveraged to address contemporary challenges in research, teaching, and industry projects.

Overall, the FDP equipped faculty members with foundational knowledge and practical skills in Microsoft Azure, empowering them to incorporate cloud computing technologies into their curriculum, research endeavors, and professional projects. It underscored the importance of staying updated with cutting-edge technologies to enhance teaching effectiveness and prepare students for the demands of the digital era.
