

FDP on Universal Human Values

Organized by

Academic Staff College, KLEF

27-07-21 To 31-07-21

A Faculty Development Program (FDP) on "Universal Human Values" was conducted with the collaboration of esteemed educators at KL-H and KLEF. Professor T P Sasi Kumar, renowned for his expertise in Mathematics at KL-H, Dr. K I Pavan Kumar, an Associate Professor from the College of Law at KLEF, and Dr. G. Sumathi, the Coordinator of the Value Education Cell at KLEF, played integral roles in organizing and facilitating the program. The FDP aimed to delve into the essence of universal human values and their significance in academia and beyond.

Through insightful discussions, interactive workshops, and presentations, participants were encouraged to reflect on the importance of integrating universal human values into their teaching methodologies and personal lives. Emphasizing the holistic development of individuals, the FDP explored practical strategies for promoting values such as integrity, empathy, respect, and compassion in educational settings. The collaborative effort of the faculty members from diverse disciplines and institutions ensured a comprehensive exploration of the topic, enriching the learning experience for all participants. Overall, the FDP served as a platform for fostering a culture of value-based education and nurturing ethical and responsible individuals within the academic community.
